

Huron Dining Table

With only three elements making up this dining table, each piece is thoughtfully considered for a minimal result. The legs are substantial and sturdy, hand carved from solid wood into smooth ovals, almost like tree trunks rising upward. The top appears to float above with a soft, rounded edge that invites touch. The underside is free from any interruptions, a simple plane that connects to the legs with concealed steel hardware. Four small hidden fasteners allow for disassembly and transport.
